

Contributors

Zanafy Gladys ABDOUL is a teaching and research assistant at the Faculty of Arts and Humanities of the University of Antananarivo, Madagascar, where she is a third-year PhD candidate. Her field of research covers gender, intergenerational transmission as well as early childhood care and education. Gladys's works and publications include: "Bridging narratives: intergenerational transmission of knowledge in the care and education of children from birth to three in Madagascar," in Early Childhood Care and Educations at the Margins: African Perspectives on Birth to Three (Routledge, 2018); 'Slam et vécus féminins malgaches: à mi-chemin entre traditions et revendications' a section of "Les arts comme vecteurs et créations de médiations" (with M. Martineau, A. Lamothe, J. Fauteux, M. Simard and F. Ranaivo Rahamefy) in Femmes et féminismes en dialogue, enjeux d'une recherche-action-médiation (L'Harmattan, 2019); "Espace indianocéanique et jeunes Malgaches: représentations et dynamique d'appropriation," in Définis-moi l'Indianocéanie, actes de colloque de l'Université de la Réunion (Epica Editions, 2019) ; "Advertising the bride in Southeastern Indian Ocean islands," book chapter, co-author Dr. Zoly Rakotoniera, (University of Antananarivo.) in The bride in the cultural imagination: screen, stage and literary productions (Lexington Books, 2020); "Achieving optimal early childhood development through enhanced collective care and grounded early childhood education in Madagascar." (Conference paper for Towards LDC-V, Future forum: achieving sustainable development in the Least Developed Countries, UN-OHRLLS and UNU-WIDER, Helsinki, Finland, Oct. 2021).

Contact: gladyszanafy@gmail.com

Vero ANDRIAMBELOSOA is a Public Health Nutritionist (graduated with a Masters' degree in Nutrition and Rural Development from the Faculty of Bioscience and Engineering at the University of Ghent, Belgium in 2010) and a Project Manager (graduated with a Master's degree in Project Management from ESG/UQAM, Canada). She has been working as a Nutrition Program Manager either in Humanitarian or Development contexts. She has been intervening in several countries in conflict or post-natural disasters such as Haiti,